LEARNING DIMENSION

The Hundred Languages of Easter Project

As part of the Re-Imagining Childhood 0-18 Research Project, teachers and children embarked on a journey towards Easter inspired by Loris Malaguzzi’s “100 Languages of Children”. This is the concept that all children bring a capable and competent understanding of their world and should not be ‘limited’ by an adult world view.

As a school we have done many wonderful presentations for our Easter celebrations. This year, inspired by the work of children and colleagues at All Saints Seaford, children made representations of their interpretation of different parts of the Easter story for an exhibition in the School Chapel.

In supporting staff to assist children in their endeavour, teachers were asked the following question:

“What will the presentation ‘look like’?”

As a process, what was critical, is how we provoked our children to explore the part of the Easter story to a much deeper level. Ultimately, it was essential that the final outcome was more child directed than the teacher’s view of what it should look like. It is important that we ask the right questions which leads to the tension in the choices children make in completing the task. This was different for each of the age groups teachers worked with. However, we should never underestimate what a child is capable of demonstrating. Through this task teachers sought to “… Stimulate curiosity through the imaginative and creative application of prompts (provocations) that encourages the student to want to learn”. In this case, each child demonstrated their deep understanding of what the Easter story meant for them.

Children created pieces in two and three dimensions using a variety of media. They used any multimedia format available to them. The children’s responses and thoughts formed an essential part of the exhibit, especially the evidence of the birth and development of the idea. Older children, explored the broader concepts that can help bring the Easter story into their reality of the present.

We wish to congratulate children and staff for the enormous effort put into the exhibition!

Sports Day: Congratulations to Brigid Team for their success at our 2015 Sports Day. Likewise, we say well done to the Paul House for winning the Spirit Cup. It was a terrific day and it was very encouraging to witness our children participating enthusiastically in the range of events. Our thanks is extended to Miss Jo Jenkins for facilitating a super organized event and to all of the staff and volunteers who played a part in ensuring the smooth operation of the Sports Day.

PLEASE NOTE; In the lead up to the Sports Day we sought participation from families to assist with supporting their child's class or helping with catering. This process was made more difficult because of the requirement from CESA to ensure ALL VOLUNTEERS have met the following two requirements:

1. A legitimate Catholic Education Police Clearance
2. Completed the online Responding to Abuse & Neglect Training (Approx 30 mins)

We remind families that these two expected components aim to protect our children by ensuring any significant adult working with our children is deemed to have met the standard required of our volunteers.

It is our aim to get 80% of our families compliant with the CESA Child Protection requirements. This will ensure future events can be organized more effectively and efficiently as we will have a larger pool of volunteers to draw from to assist with St Brigid’s Catholic School activities. Teachers are only permitted to utilize volunteers who have the two elements for compliance.

“BRIGID” SPORTS DAY WINNERS 2015

“PAUL” SPIRIT CUP WINNERS 2015
Seasons for Growth is a programme designed to help children who are grieving. The programme helps them to understand that it is okay to feel sad and that grieving is normal. We all grieve at some time.

A number of teachers have indicated to me that they have children in their classes who are grieving and may benefit from being part of this programme.

Children can be grieving the loss of a pet, a loved one, a move from a familiar home or school etc. Whatever the reason for the grief, Seasons can help them see their way through it.

There is a programme for Junior Primary, Middle Primary and Upper Primary.

We need a minimum of four in any level to run the programme. If you think this may benefit your child/children please indicate on the slip below and return to me.
